Project Title: M.C. Escher

I would like to build a multi-page website that talks about the life story and work of Escher, inside the work there could be different categories of his work such as painting, woodcuts, lithographs etc. There should be a menu bar on the side of the page in a fixed position so that audience could have access to different pages when they are scrolling the website.

Home page:
This page should have a brief introduction of Escher with the image of him and his artwork.

Life story:
This should be one page that shows all the content as the audience scrolling down the page. This page should include the life story of Escher with pictures embedded in the text using left-aligned, right-aligned, or grid method.

Work/gallery:
This page would be an overview of Escher's work, with secondary pages that categorize Escher's work in different format. The detail of categories could refer to the Wikipedia page or Escher's personal online gallery.
